

Charity Barclays Vigils: Prayers

In the coming months we will be holding a series of vigils, where we pray with different charities for them to drop Barclays as their bank.

Barclays is the biggest funder of fossil fuels in Europe. In this critical time for life on our planet, we invite charities to join us in vigil - to reflect on the impact our banking decisions have.

Why we are here

(The words 'this charity' can be replaced by the name of the charity)

We are here today, to pray in this critical time, as those who care for creation.

As this charity makes decisions on its banking arrangements going forward, we pray that they drop their bank account with Barclays - the biggest funder of fossil fuels in Europe.

We pray for this charity

We pray for their dedication to being a transformational power for good.

We pray for the projects around the world and the joy they bring to places of suffering.

We pray for the staff and the passion they bring to their roles
[time of silent reflection]

We pray for those suffering the effects of climate breakdown.

We pray for those experiencing desperation and distress.

We pray for those who have lost loved ones, communities and homelands.

We pray for those who are frustrated and angry at the power structures in our world.

[time of silent reflection]

We pray for those involved in deciding this charity's banking arrangements.

We pray that they seize this opportunity to make a real difference in the funding of climate breakdown.

We pray that they drop Barclays bank and speak publicly about why they have done this.

We pray that this causes a ripple across the charity sector and that more and more charities follow suit.

[time of silent reflection]

In the name of God

Amen

Naming

- inspired by a Padraig O Tuama blessing

In the name of the Creator, and the Redeemer, and of the Companion

In the name of the bee, and the butterfly and the breeze,

In the name of blossom, birdsong and all of the trees

In the name of truth, and all of the beauty that surrounds us

In the name of love for our fellow human beings, love for all living things, and love for this beautiful planet that we call home

In the name of all these things

We reject our failure to think of others

We reject ignoring the implications for the global south

We reject careless indifference

We reject maximised profit for the few

And so;

We lament Barclays continued funding of new oil & gas projects around the world, and we call on those who continue to bank with Barclays to now choose to proactively look for alternative banking options.

And in these difficult times – we remember the flame of hope

We remember that we are all the authors of our future

We remember that change can bring new possibilities

Therefore we cry out for Justice.

We cry out in love

And may we always journey in the footsteps of the Divine
We ask this in the name of Jesus, and all of the other speakers of truth in this generation
Amen

Wonder

Sometimes we look around and everything looks beautiful - especially on a sunny spring day, especially if we're in a park or garden, or by a river or the coast. God wills that the world should be a place of beauty. Yet we know that at present the world is a place of sin and suffering arising from our human waywardness. If we look more closely we know we will see evidences of pain and harm, of brutality and ugliness. Can a sense of wonder help us to respond?

Now is the sky blue!
Now is the verge blowsy with lady's lace and buttercups, and tousle headed grasses.
The dog rose in the hedge
the sheep beyond.
The burbling refrain of the curlew,
the acrobatic swerve of the swift.
All is now, and now, and now!

But tomorrow, next week, next year?
Merciful God will they still be there?
Will our apathy,
our slowness to act,
our aversion to change allowed all this to be threatened, diminished, and evicted from life?

Have mercy.
But not just mercy –

rather prod us, prompt us, push us into action.
Renew our hearts and minds, reverse our expectations
so that we change the future and once more
be restorers of creation.
Amen.

For the earth will be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea. Habakkuk 2:14

Hope

God wills that the world should be a place of beauty and peace - and the world is full of signs and stories showing us how we can part of such a world.

All that is holy!

Amongst the woods and forests,
between oaks and cedars,
God's name is holy.
In the seas and oceans,
with whales and sea urchins,
God's name is holy.

Across the moors and meadows,
with curlews and plovers,
God's name is holy.
By riverbanks and streams,
following eels and kingfishers,
God's name is holy .

High up on mountain peaks and glaciers, sheltering in cwms and gullies,
God's name is holy.
Gathered in barns and hives,
buzzing with bees and bats,
God's name is holy .

Hidden under stones and snuck into crevices,
lying low with lizards and spiders,
God's name is holy .

In all corners of the world
and where ever life exists,
God's name is holy!
Amen.

But ask the animals, and they will teach you;
the birds of the air, and they will tell you;
ask the plants of the earth, and they will teach you;
and the fish of the sea will declare to you.
Who among all these does not know that the hand of the Lord has done this? Job 12:7-9

Living God,
when we neglect to see the beauty around us,
open our eyes.
When we neglect to hear the music around us,
open our ears.
When we neglect to feel your presence, awaken our senses.
When we neglect to receive your love,
open our hearts.
Living God,
re-inspire us with your Spirit,
so that in us too your name is holy.

Amen.

Awareness

Listen; attune your ears – what do you hear?
The excited chatter of children,
and the chatter of jackdaws,
wind rustling the leaves,
and feet tapping the road.
Or the drone of cars – too much!
Or the whine of planes – too many!

Look; focus your vision – what do you see?
a lacework of branches against the sky,
and curvaceous clouds,
tawny shades of fallen leaves,
and the tight curl of a snail shell.
Or traffic crawling bumper to bumper – too much
Or discarded tatters of plastic – too many!

Stretch; bare your skin – what do you feel?
The warm caress of the sun,
the chilly nip of the breeze,
the prickle of grass,
the textured bark of a tree
Or the rasp of exhaust in your throat – too much!
Or the scratch of particulates in your eyes – too many!

Sniff; breathe deeply – what do you smell?
The aroma of fresh coffee,
and the zest of orange juice,
the fragrance of the last rose,
and the warmth of ground spices.

Or the reek of petrol – too much!
Or the sting of pesticides – too many!

Savour; let it linger on your tongue – what do you taste?
The fresh acidity of an apple,
and the earthy satisfaction of bread,
the squashy sweetness of banana,
and the melting delight of chocolate.
Or the fake sweetness of green wash – too much!
Or the gall of climate injustice- too many !

Merciful God,
bring us to our senses.
Help us rebuild a world of right experiences.
Amen.

Taste and see that the LORD is good! Blessed are those who trust in God! Psalm 34:8

Panic

Being aware of what is happening can overwhelm us. If it's the goodness and beauty that overwhelms we can become ecstatic. But if it is fear and horror, it can be a cause of panic. In either the invitation is to share our feelings with God.

Stop the world!

I want to get off!
I can't cope with climate anxiety, with the knowledge that we are still polluting the atmosphere with CO2.

Stop the world!

I want to get off!
I can't cope with the politics that we continue to ignore – that let the rich grow richer & the poor poorer.

Stop the world!

I want to get off!
I can't cope with the cycle of hate and war,
with our conviction that being tough will bring peace and reconciliation.

Stop the world!

I want to get off!
I can't cope with the pursuit of profit that says 'I'm worth it' whilst resolutely destroying our world.

Stop the world!

I want to get off!
I can't cope with myopia that can't see the spread of global suffering because we are safe in our wealth.

Eternal God,
Give me some hope to aim for,
courage to continue,
and peace to regain strength.
Amen.

Do not fear, for I am with you; do not be afraid, for I am your God. I will strengthen you; I will surely help you; I will uphold you with My right hand of righteousness. Isaiah 41:10

Regret

Honest awareness of what is happening in the world may prompt us to consider the part we have been or are playing, and to reassess our response.

Far away and near at hand

The floods were far away
Now there near at hand.
How long before I wet my feet and take a stand?

The heat was far away.
Now it's close to home.
How long before I own the fact and finally begin to act?

Hurricanes were tropical.
Now they're topical.
How long before I feel my guilt and understand the world we've built?

Our climate is changing –
Far away and near at hand.
Holy God, redeem our failings and strengthen our resolve:
far away and near at hand.

How long O Lord?
How many heat waves?
How many droughts?
How many floods?

How many lost coast lines?
How many before we admit our error?
Before we recognise the crisis?

How many lost penguins?
How many missing polar bears?
How many extinct butterflies?
How many disappearing swifts?
How many before we admit our error?
Before we recognise the crisis?

How many car journeys?
How many air miles?
How many beef steaks?
How many tonnes of cement?
How many before we admit our error?
Before we recognise the crisis?

Creator God, we admit our error and recognise the crises we have caused.
Grant us the wisdom and determination to make amends:
To change the way we live,
To change the way we see things,
To have care for the future. Amen.

Realisation

Regret can lead either to despair - there is no hope - or lament which is an expression of grief that leave the way open for new beginnings.

Love and cherish not some of the earth but all;
Not just your back yard, but mine too;
Not just your local wood but the rainforests too;
Not just your home town but the favelas too.

Love and cherish not some creatures but all;
Not just pandas and tigers, but the vulture and bat too;
Not just bees but wasps and spiders too;
Not just elephants but slugs and snails too.

Love and cherish not some landscapes but all;
Not just meadows but peat bogs too;
Not just ancient woodlands but hedgerows too
Not just national parks but grass verges too.

Love and cherish not some people but all;
Not just city bankers but street cleaners too;
Not just business leaders but refugees too;
Not just home owners but travellers too.

For if we do not, we are all diminished.
If we do not we shall all suffer from droughts and floods, rising sea levels and declining water supplies,
from infectious diseases and resistant bacteria.

We are one world, one family,

one eco system, one interdependent and interwoven creation.

God, our creator, redeemer and sustainer,
Bring us to our senses!
Now!

Compassionate God, you know our hearts and share our sorrows.
We are hurt by the despoiling of the living Earth, which we love.
We are angry at the loss we contemplate.
We long for words of comfort, yet find them hard to hear.
Turn our grief to active love
Turn our anger to energy for repair of the world Turn our guilt to solidarity and by your forgiveness make us whole with all creation.
Amen

O Lord, what a variety of things you have made! In wisdom you have made them all. The earth is full of your creatures. Here is the ocean, vast and wide, teeming with life of every kind, both large and small.
Psalm 104:24-25

Action

From the first chapters of Genesis, we realise that God created humans to be active participants in the wellbeing of the earth.

We stand at a tipping point, O God, teetering between life and death:
Shall we fall or rise?
“Chose life!”

Shall we retreat into our shells, bury our heads in the sand:
Or shall we step forth into a new age of sustainability?
“Chose life!”

Shall we ignore the science, hide ourselves in the trappings of consumerism:
Or shall we openly embrace renewable lifestyles?
“Chose life!”

Shall we pointlessly mourn the loss of polar bears and elephants, bees and butterflies:
Or shall we live our lives so that all may live?
“Chose life!”

Shall we fly to the ends of the earth while ice sheets melt:
Or value the future by enjoying what is local?
“Chose life!”

Shall we disregard floods and droughts, storms and heat waves, as seasonal blips:
Or acknowledge them as already-present signs of climate change?
“Chose life!”

Shall we close our ears to cries of help from farmers and islanders as their lands disappear:

Or shall we join voices in calling for justice?

“Chose life!”

Holy God,

Prompt us and urge us, encourage and propel us, to now change our life styles so that all may have life and live!

Amen.

I call heaven and earth as witnesses against you today that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing. Therefore choose life, so that you and your descendants may live. Deuteronomy 30:19

Perspective

Loving God, we strive to follow your ways of righteousness and justice in the world.

Yet we feel small and inept, and lay before you our dilemma.

Will you stand by if humanity continues to ignore your ways, following a path instead that leads to self destruction?

Will you stand by if 5000 choose not to follow the crowd? For the sake of the few, will you protect us all from self destruction?

Lord have mercy.

But loving God, Will you stand by if only 500 choose not to follow the crowd?

For the sake of the few, will you protect us all from self destruction?
Lord have mercy.

But loving God, Will you stand by if only 50 choose not to follow the crowd?

For the sake of the few, will you protect us all from self destruction?
Lord have mercy.

Loving God, strengthen our resolve to do what is right,
to stand up for the marginalised,
to safeguard creation and protect life
- even when we feel small and ineffective.

Give us the confidence to share our concerns and our hopes for the planet, so that we can encourage and welcome others to follow the path of righteousness and justice.
Amen.

“Behold, God is my salvation,
I will trust and not be afraid;
For the Lord God is my strength and song,
And He has become my salvation.” Isaiah 12:2

Persistence

Let us remember the many stories of God’s that show the collective strength of small and insignificant people and the power of persistence.

The Waves

The gentle to and fro of the wave, back and forth,
soothing,
gently rocking, Loving God, calm us, and move us as peace-makers.

The persistence of the wave,
never stopping,
never quitting,
gradually wearing down all resistance Loving God, sustain us, and make us a force for good.

The power of the wave,
building up,
growing in size,
acquiring energy as it moves Loving God, strengthen us, and harness our energy to do what is right.

The breaker, poised but still moving, ready to break –
to break out, to break up, to break forth

Loving God, contain us, and prepare us to spill out into the world.

The crest of the wave, exploding, releasing energy that breaks down barriers and undermines obstructions Loving God, free us, and use us to reform the structures of the world.

Storm wave, tidal wave,
tsunami,
that brokers no discussion,
that overwhelms all Loving God, override us,
and free the world from its own vices.
Amen.
